The All Peaks Competition is a major event in the Sovereign of Martial Worlds series, a Chinese web novel by Cang Yue. It is a tournament where martial artists from all over the world compete for the title of Sovereign of Martial Worlds. The competition is held every five years, and the winner is awarded a powerful weapon and the opportunity to rule over the martial arts world.

Format of the Competition

The All Peaks Competition is a single-elimination tournament. The tournament is divided into several rounds, and the number of rounds varies depending on the number of participants. The first round is typically a round-robin tournament, where each participant fights every other participant in their group. The top finishers in each group advance to the next round.

The second round is a single-elimination tournament. The top finishers from the first round are seeded into the second round, and they are paired up against each other. The winners of the second round advance to the third round, and so on.

The final round of the All Peaks Competition is a one-on-one battle between the two remaining participants. The winner of the final round is crowned the Sovereign of Martial Worlds.

Prizes

The winner of the All Peaks Competition is awarded a powerful weapon and the opportunity to rule over the martial arts world. The weapon that is awarded to the winner varies from tournament to tournament, but it is typically a very powerful weapon.

In addition to the weapon, the winner of the All Peaks Competition is also given the opportunity to rule over the martial arts world. This means that the winner has the authority to make decisions about the martial arts world, and they can also appoint other martial artists to positions of power.
