Once upon a time, in a faraway land, there were two brave caveman kids named Tikki and Tokki. They lived in a small cave with their family and loved exploring the wilderness around their home.

One day, as they were playing near a river, they heard a faint cry for help. They followed the sound and found a tiny baby mammoth stuck in a muddy puddle. The baby was all alone and scared, and Tikki and Tokki knew they had to help.

They tried to pull the baby mammoth out of the mud, but it was too heavy. They thought about going back to their cave and getting help, but they were afraid that the baby mammoth would be gone by the time they returned.

So, Tikki and Tokki decided to stay and try to save the baby mammoth themselves. They worked together, digging around the mammoth with their hands and sticks. After a long time, they finally managed to free the baby mammoth from the mud.

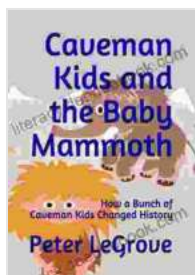

The baby mammoth was so happy and grateful to Tikki and Tokki. It followed them back to their cave, where they gave it some food and water. The baby mammoth soon became friends with Tikki and Tokki, and they all had many adventures together.

One day, the baby mammoth's mother came looking for it. Tikki and Tokki were sad to see the baby mammoth go, but they knew that it was time for it to return to its family.

The baby mammoth's mother thanked Tikki and Tokki for saving her child, and then she led her baby away. Tikki and Tokki watched them go, and they felt proud of what they had done.

Tikki and Tokki continued to have many adventures together, but they never forgot the day they saved the baby mammoth. It was a day that taught them the importance of courage, friendship, and helping those in need.
