The novel opens with Wang Lung and his wife, O-lan, working in their fields. Wang Lung is a hard worker, but he is also poor. He and O-lan live in a small mud hut and have little to eat. However, Wang Lung is determined to improve his life and the lives of his family.

One day, Wang Lung is hired to work on the estate of a wealthy landlord. He works hard and impresses the landlord, who gives him a loan to buy a piece of land. Wang Lung and O-lan are overjoyed. They build a new house and begin to farm their own land.

Wang Lung and O-lan have three sons and two daughters. Wang Lung is a strict father, but he loves his children. He wants them to have a better life than he did.

As the years pass, Wang Lung becomes wealthy. He buys more land and hires workers to help him farm. He also builds a new house for his family. However, Wang Lung is not happy. He misses the simple life he had when he was poor.

One day, Wang Lung's oldest son is killed in a fight. Wang Lung is devastated. He feels that he has lost everything. He sells his land and his house and moves back to his old village.

Wang Lung and O-lan live in a small hut again. They are poor, but they are happy. They have each other and their memories.
