The Sound of Wings is a novel by Virginia Woolf that explores the themes of loss, grief, and the nature of time. The novel tells the story of the Pargiter family, who are living in a remote country house in the aftermath of the First World War. The family is struggling to come to terms with the loss of their son, Percival, who was killed in the war. The novel explores the different ways that the family members deal with their grief, and how they try to find meaning in their lives after the war.

The novel is divided into three parts. The first part, "The Pargiters," introduces the family and their way of life. The second part, "Percival," focuses on Percival's life and death. The third part, "The Survivors," follows the family as they struggle to come to terms with Percival's death and find meaning in their lives.

The Sound of Wings is a complex and moving novel that explores the profound effects of loss and grief. Woolf's writing is lyrical and evocative, and she creates a vivid and memorable world for her characters. The novel is a must-read for anyone interested in the themes of loss, grief, and the nature of time.

Characters

- The Pargiter family: The Pargiter family is a wealthy and influential family who live in a remote country house. The family is made up of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pargiter, and their four children, Percival, Kitty, Nancy, and Cam.
- Percival: Percival is the eldest son of the Pargiter family. He is a talented and promising young man who is killed in the First World War.
- Kitty: Kitty is Percival's younger sister. She is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is engaged to be married to a wealthy man. However, she is unable to get over the death of her brother and eventually breaks off her engagement.
- Nancy: Nancy is Percival's younger sister. She is a shy and introverted young woman who is devoted to her family. She is deeply affected by Percival's death and finds it difficult to move on.
- Cam: Cam is Percival's younger brother. He is a lively and outgoing young man who is always getting into trouble. He is the only member of the family who seems to be able to adjust to life after the war.

Themes

- Loss: The novel explores the profound effects of loss and grief. The Pargiter family is devastated by the loss of their son, Percival, and they struggle to come to terms with his death.

- Grief: The novel explores the different ways that people grieve. Some of the characters, like Kitty, are unable to move on from their grief, while others, like Cam, are able to find a way to live with their loss.
- Time: The novel explores the nature of time and how it can both heal and wound. The Pargiter family is unable to escape the memory of Percival, and they are constantly reminded of his death. However, time also heals some of the wounds of grief, and the family is eventually able to find a way to move on.

Style

The Sound of Wings is written in a lyrical and evocative style. Woolf uses beautiful language to create a vivid and memorable world for her characters. The novel is full of rich imagery and symbolism, and Woolf's writing is both poetic and profound.
