If you think your koi fish may be sick, you should isolate it from the other fish and contact a veterinarian.

Koi fish are relatively easy to care for, but they do require special attention to thrive. By following the tips in this guide, you can help your koi fish live a long and healthy life.

1. Provide your koi fish with a hiding place. Koi fish can be easily stressed by predators, so providing them with a hiding place will help them to feel safe. You can use a variety of objects as a hiding place, such as a rock, a plant, or a piece of pipe.
2. Keep the water clean. The water in your koi pond should be changed regularly to prevent the buildup of waste and pollutants. You can change the water by using a pump or by simply draining and refilling the pond.

3. Monitor the water temperature. The water temperature in your koi pond should be between 60 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit. You can use a thermometer to monitor the water temperature and adjust it as needed.
