The attacks on the BBC have come from a variety of sources, including politicians, journalists, and members of the public. Some of the most common criticisms of the BBC include:

- Bias: The BBC has been accused of being biased in favor of the left-wing. Critics point to the BBC's coverage of Brexit, which they say was biased in favor of the Remain campaign. They also point to the BBC's coverage of the Labour Party, which they say is often more favorable than its coverage of the Conservative Party.

- Lack of impartiality: The BBC has been accused of lacking impartiality. Critics point to the BBC's decision to give airtime to far-right groups, such as the English Defence League. They also point to the BBC's coverage of the 2016 US presidential election, which they say was biased in favor of Hillary Clinton.
